This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. PREFACE.

THIS List of subject headings has been prepared for the cataloger and is to be considered as an appendix to Cutter's Rules for a dictionary catalog, ed. 3, sections 99 to 120.

Every compiler of a dictionary catalog finds two great difficulties: 1st, the choice between synonymous or related headings; 2d, the making of the necessary cross-references. The best catalogs show great diversity of usage and it has often been suggested that, by a collation of these catalogs, a list of subject headings might be made which would simplify the work of the cataloger and lead to more uniformity. At the Lakewood conference of the American Library Association a committee for this purpose was appointed. At the Chicago conference the committee reported progress and the Publishing Section was instructed to proceed with publication as soon as possible. At the Lake Placid conference the committee reported completion of the work, and it is now submitted to the members of the A. L. A and other librarians for approval. The catalogs on which the list is based are those of the Boston Athenæum, Peabody Institute and Cleveland Public Library, the American catalog, and the Harvard Subject index.

Of course no such list can be complete, nor is this intended to be so. It is limited to the headings most often needed in the small or medium sized public library. The following classes of headings have been omitted:

1. Personal names.

2. Geographical headings, such as names of countries, places, languages, literatures, etc. [See Library journal, 18:C79–80, for treatment of these.*]

3. Technical and scientific names, unless there are equivalent common names and for purposes of cross-reference.

4. Animals and plants and chemical and medicinal substances.

5. Books and other parts of the Bible. These should be entered as subheads under Bible, with reference from their names.

6. The following special classes: Names of months, days, processes in arithmetic, parts of speech, virtues and vices, diseases, headings beginning with numbers (as Eighteenth century).

7. Other specific headings where there seemed to be no doubt as to name or references, as most games, foods, etc.

It is thought that the list is sufficiently full for ordinary use. The headings for any new subject can be settled by the application of the rules given below and by the analogies of headings already in the list. For full discussion of principles the cataloger is referred to Cutter's Rules. Any cataloger having to deal with unusual books will consult special catalogs or reference books, such as the Surgeon-General's Catalog, Soule's Lawyers' reference manual, Bouvier's Law dictionary, M'Clintock and Strong's Cyclopædia, etc.

*See also Appendix G.

The general principle of decision is that the heading shall be that under which it is supposed that the majority of educated Americans will look, with cross-references from other forms of heading.

In carrying out this principle the following rules have been followed so far as possible:

1. Use common names instead of technical, English instead of foreign; but not if the common or English name is ambiguous or of ill-defined extent.

2. Use singular rather than plural except where subjects are only thought of under the plural.

3. Use headings most generally found in the leading catalogs. Usage, however, is changing; Moral philosophy, for example, is now almost universally called Ethics.

4. Put compound names under the first word unless some other is more significant (Agricultural botany, rather than Botany, agricultural; but History, ancient, rather than Ancient history).*

In order that all the books on a subject may be brought together in the catalog, cross-references must be liberally supplied. For this reason the list of "see-also" is especially full.

Particular attention is called to the "refer-froms." These are the "see-also" reversed and group under each heading the references that should be made from other subjects. Of course these references are not to be made unless the book cataloged actually illustrates the subject from which reference is made. They are suggestions rather than directions, and do not relieve the cataloger from using his judgment.

It has not always been thought necessary to include in the list obvious "refer-from" references where the headings stand side-by-side in the alphabetical arrangement. For example, from Agriculture to Agricultural botany, pests, etc.

It will of course be understood that where the reference is simply "See," no subject entries are to be made under the heading referred from.

One column is left blank for additions. The cataloger is advised to check headings and references as used and to add new headings required. If he wishes to use a different form of heading, it will be necessary to make the change wherever the heading occurs in the list, otherwise discrepancies will creep into the catalog. By this method a complete list of all the subject headings and references in the catalog will be at hand without reference to the catalog itself.

* Minority report. C. A. Cutter prefers Ancient art, Ancient geography, Ancient history; Classical antiquities, Classical art, Classical biography, Classical geography, Classical history; as he would prefer Medieval antiquities, Medieval art, Medieval geography, and Medieval history, if in that case the substantive Middle ages were not better.

In this he follows the principle of concrete cataloging, which brings together what relates to a thing, a country, a period, rather than all works belonging to a class or form, such as Geography, History.

Unless the library is quite small, personal and geographical headings should be kept on slips as a supplementary list.

When there is a great accumulation of entries under a heading, it is well to subdivide. The Boston Athenæum and Peabody Institute catalogs furnish good models for such subdivision. [See also Appendix.] .

We do not expect that this List of subject headings will be considered final or escape criticism. If, however, the general scheme of the work receives the approval of librarians, it forms a basis upon which a revised edition can more easily be prepared. We shall be satisfied with our labors if the result is found useful to catalogers, especially to beginners.

PREFACE TO SECOND EDITION.

IN the present edition a few errors have been corrected, and changes and additions have been made in accordance with suggestions of catalogers. The small number of criticisms, either of the general plan or of particular headings, indicates that the work has met the approval of its users. The number of changes in headings is 192, many of which are merely alterations in spelling or compounding of words to conform to the Century dictionary, the standard adopted by the Publishing Section. The work having now been stereotyped, further changes are not to be expected for many years. Special thanks for suggestions are due to Miss Esther Crawford, head cataloger of the Dayton (Ohio) Public Library, and J. C. Hansen, head cataloger of the Library of Congress. Dr. G. E. Wire, formerly in charge of the medical department of the Newberry Library, and a member of the original committee, has revised the medical headings.

The special feature of this edition is the appendix, which contains hints on subject cataloging, and schemes for subdivision of countries, cities, the Bible, Shakespeare, and languages, these being headings under which many entries are likely to accumulate. The more extended schemes are needed only by large libraries. Most libraries should begin with the briefer schemes, making additional subheads as the library increases in size. Thanks are due the Boston Public Library and the New York State Library School for permission to reprint those to which their names are attached.

C. A. CUTTER,
EDITH D. FULLER,

A.

SOME HINTS ON SUBJECT CATALOGING IN DICTIONARY STYLE.

By C. A. Cutter.

EVERY book should be entered under the word that most closely expresses its main subject. This designation should be as exact as possible, neither too restricted, for then part of the book's contents will be wasted, nor too general, because it is not the purpose to make a classed catalog.

Do not enter under the specific subject and under the including class also. This will only make of the dictionary catalog an incomplete and unsatisfactory classed catalog. [Cutter's Rules, § 93.]

If a book has two, three, or more subjects it must be put under as many headings. But before making more than one entry one should always consider whether there is not some word that includes all of them; if there is, that word is the proper heading. Thus instead of putting "Gesture and expression; suggestions for speakers" under both Expression and Gesture it should be entered under Elocution. Green's "Plants and animals" should not be entered under both Botany and Zoology but under Natural history. Sometimes only part of the subjects can be thus combined. In such cases the others must receive their individual entry. [Cutter's Rules, §§ 109, 110.]

Some books are polytopical which do not appear to be so at first glance. "Travels in Armenia and China" every one would put under each country; "Plato's doctrine of painting," by Sartorius, has equally two subjects, Plato and Painting, and should be entered under each. [Cutter's Rules, §§ 109, 110.]

If two subjects are frequently conjoined in books so that the same titles would appear under both headings, a saving may be made when one comes to print, by substituting a reference in one of the places. Many books, for example, treat of the United States and Canada. A Canadian library would put all of these under Canada, a United States library under United States, with a general reference under the other heading. But in a card catalog, where it is irksome to turn from one part to another, one ventures on such saving much less often.

Not infrequently it is worth while to enter under a separate heading a subject which fills only a volume, a chapter, or an appendix. But the cataloger must be careful not to push this analytical work too far. He is not making an index but a catalog. A library with few books needs to bring out its hidden treasures in this way more than one which has whole works on the various subjects. But it must be remembered that a reference in Mr. Fletcher's "A. L. A. index" will often serve about as well as an entry in one's own catalog, just as Poole's "Index to periodical literature" makes it wrong to write analyticals for any of the magazines indexed therein. [Cutter's Rules, §§ 125–128.]

Do not, at first, make very minute subdivisions under countries, but as the number of titles increases break them up more and more into groups. Other comprehensive subjects, such as Law, Philosophy, Religion, may have subdivisions if made necessary by a large number of cards. The subheads appropriate under every subject are Bibliography, Dictionaries, History, Periodicals. [Cutter's Rules, § 255, last three paragraphs of fine print. See also Appendixes B–F.]

It will not do to trust the title-page alone in assigning subject headings. Titles are often misleading. Examine the table of contents and turn over the pages; in many cases one must read a part of the work before one knows just what its subject is.

For fuller discussion see Cutter's Rules for a dictionary catalog, third edition, pages 45–59.

COUNTRIES AND STATES.

1. A SHORTER SCHEME OF SUBHEADS.

BASED ON THE 1893 REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON AN INDEX TO SUBJECT HEADINGS, LIBRARY JOURNAL, 18:C80.

Publications of the Government.

These may be arranged before books about the country, as in the fuller scheme below, or the different departments, etc., may be arranged in the same alphabet as the subjects.

Example:

Education.
Education bureau.
Finance.
Geological survey.
Geology.

A full list of departments, bureaus, etc., of the United States government is given at the end of the Catalog of the public documents of the 53d Congress, Washington, 1896.

Works about a Country or State.

General and miscellaneous. [This heading need not be written on the cards.]
*Agriculture.
Antiquities.
Army and navy [under states use Militia].
Bibliography.
Biography.
Church history.
Colonies.
Commerce and industries.
Constitution.
Description and travel.
Directories.
*Education.
Finance.
*Fine arts.
Foreign relations, Treaties.
*Geology [including physical geography and paleontology].
*Heraldry.
History [subdivided by periods when necessary].
Laboring classes.
Law.
Literature. See adjective form of literature name; i.e. (under France) See French literature. [Consult Appendix G.]
Manners and customs.
*Natural history.

* Many catalogers prefer to enter books on an art or science under the art or science, subdivided by country if necessary.

Politics and government.
Religion.
Statistics.
Surveys.

If a book cannot properly be entered under either of the above subheads the proper heading may be selected from the fuller scheme given below. Small libraries are advised not to multiply subdivisions until needed, as too many subheads are confusing.
